Lessons in Love

Dear Friends,

It seems that love has become so hard to define
So I thought I'd help and give you some hints of mine.
To inspire you to create a script of your own
And to let you know you are not alone.

Love is an amazingly interesting thing
If served up properly, it can make your heart sing.
But somehow, it seems along the way
We lost love's real meaning, you might say!

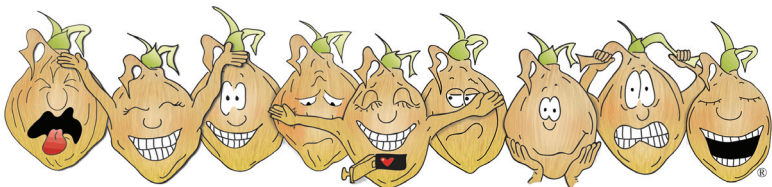

We forgot that love is an action – not a word
To think otherwise is really absurd.
We spend a lot of time not giving love a thought
Too busy buying things, when love cannot be bought.

Love is simply kindness, truth, respect and purity
Safety, enthusiasm, understanding and sincerity.
Remember, you always have an inside mentor
Because love is the core that lives in your center.

So come on, get going and write whatever you wish
How you love your friend, family, dog or even your fish.
Think about how everyone and everything makes you feel
Let your words pave the way to become heartfelt and real.

Write, draw or print all that love honestly means to you
And then watch how your dreams will really come true.
Love is the ONLY answer you truly need to know
For you to be blissful and for your spirit to grow.

Then peace will be created in the world and all will be right
Finally, there will be no heaviness – there will only be light.
