

How to be and Know Love

Only love can give us stability.

Real love always seeks the win-win.

True love dissolves ego.

Conflict is dissolved when being loving.

Seek constantly for truth, when seeking love.

Loving will not prevail, while liking control.

If nothing but love existed, perfection is not far behind.

It takes constant effort to maintain a loving relationship.

Judging restrains our ability to love properly.

Love is secured through understanding.

When we share love with another, we strengthen ourselves.

Everyone has the power to create heaven by loving well.

The mind that serves love is invulnerable.

Be vigilant for love, for nothing else matches it.

Love waits on welcome, not on time.

We are not meant to deprive ourselves from love.

Every relationship needs to become a lesson in love.

The world is truly just a teaching device for love.

All real enlightenment comes from love.

We would need far less radiation, if more people would radiate love.

Manifesting love is merely our ability to focus our full attention on it.

The voice of contentment is as loud as our willingness to love.

Love is always available, as long as we have it in our own hearts.

Love truly cannot be explained or described – it just is!