Introduction

The magic of creation is that everything truly has a meaning and a purpose. Most of us have never thought about this fact, therefore never realized or paid homage to it. When we come to know that every object or species has a significance, it automatically adds meaning to our own personal lives.

The purpose of this book is to acknowledge the importance of each, and everything mentioned. In doing so, it will definitely add more marvel and magic to our everyday life. It has been proven over and over again that limitless thinking and knowing helps us stay healthier and happier.

When we are aware of the relevance of something we become more conscious of the relevance of ourselves. This, in turn, transforms our lower thought forms into an intelligence filled with activated wonder.

Animals and their Meanings

'You can judge a nation by the way it treats its animals' - Mahatma Gandhi

The word 'animal' is derived from the Latin word 'anima' which means soul or breath of life. The words 'wild animal' came from the Anglo-Saxons, meaning free from human control. In truth, animals are our kindred spirits. They are as intelligent as us, sometimes even smarter. They have emotions like we do, but there is one thing they are void of – EGO. As a result of that fact, we have much to learn from our four-legged friends. They heal us, teach us forgiveness, compassion, loyalty and purity. Our connection with animals serves another, deeper function. Since ancient times, they have been recognized as messengers, healers and helpers. They were revered as guardian creatures and symbols of what the future held. Today we rarely honor them as our guides and teachers. However, domesticated animals are revered as our companions, who open our hearts, protect us and help us heal our wounds. When a wild animal appears in our space, we are being blessed with an energetic message. If we are smart, we will pay attention to what they are trying to tell us. They offer guidance and support, we just have to be open to it because if we allow ourselves to connect with them, they can touch a primal part of our souls and spirit. When we speak with the animals, we come to realize that they are indeed not our subordinates, but our masters and guides.

To know more, there are many books and in-depth information concerning the wondrous meaning of animals. This was a simple way to bring awareness of these intuitive, incredible beings.

Birds and their Meanings

Birds are symbols of raising the vibrations of the material world. They all have qualities in common. Most fly and therefore are often messengers between realms. It is said that birds were created so that their wingbeats will echo the divine language of heaven, being brought to earth.

Defining the reasoning of each bird is difficult, however by studying the bird's behaviors and qualities, we discover a prominent aspect that helps us understand their meaning. Birds assist humans understand the world around them and the spiritual forces playing upon them. When a particular bird appears for you, pay attention. More often than not, the bird has shown up with a message, which is gift and honor specifically meant for you.

The symbol of the feather has a deep spiritual meaning as well. They represent a connection to spirit and the divine universe. It is believed that when feathers fall to earth, they come as presents from the sky. As well, birds are revered as spirit guides, who bring messages, teachings, guidance and protection to mankind.

Suggestion: Ask yourself what were you doing at the time of the encounter, what has most been on your mind for the past 24 hours before the encounter, or who has been on your mind or heart and what do you think they want to communicate?

If you want to know more, there are many books and in-depth information concerning the meaning of birds. This is just a simple and easy way to spark your awareness of these magnificent beings.

Crystals and their Meanings

The word crystal is of Greek origin. The word 'crystal' comes from the Greek word for Ice. Crystals hold within them the creation of our planet. The first historical references to the use of crystals come from the Ancient Sumerians, who included them in their formulas they considered magic. The Ancient Egyptians used them primarily for healing and protection. A hieroglyphic papyrus from the year 2000 BC documents the Egyptians using crystals for medicinal cures.

When we tap into the energies within the crystals, it is possible to feel one with the vibrational essence held within the crystal. In Europe starting from the 11th century, crystals were used for certain ailments. Although no longer in use medicinally, crystals continue to hold meaning. As example, the Zuni and Hopi tribes view stones and crystals as something sacred. In the 1980's the use of crystals began to re-emerge as an added healing modality. They are now considered an acceptable complimentary therapy and are used widely throughout the world.

Flowers and their Meanings

Flowers have personalities, just like people. Some are cute, some are beautiful, some are lush, some only like groups and some like to stand alone. They are mystical, magical and very often miraculous. They speak of love, light and healing. They are messengers for us when we cannot find the proper words. They are deliverers for us in our absence when needed. It is sad that they die so shortly after we cut them, so it is important that they stay on in our hearts. They are treasures and are keepers of our memories. As well, flowers have a language all of their own. They stand tall, droop quietly, bend over to touch another, or are wildly colorful. Sometimes they even look like they are laughing. Regardless of their personalities, they touch our souls and the souls of those we gift them to. We get captivated by their beauty and their scents fill us with warmth and kindness. Flowers are also a powerful instrument of peace, tenderness and beauty in all types of ceremonies and celebrations. They become a wondrous blessing for all to behold.

Planets and their Meanings

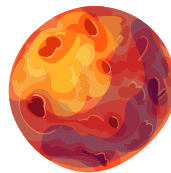

Mercury

In astrology, having Mercury in our chart means verbal communication is very important to us. It governs our speech, reasoning, and communication abilities. Gemini is with the planet of Mercury.

In ancient mythology, Mercury was named after the Roman god of earth. It has been in charge of delivering all messages from the gods. It particularly aimed at the acquisition of money and marriage. It is known to be the fastest moving planet, so it used to make things happen quickly, in order to expedite matters.

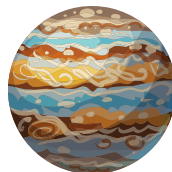

Mars

In astrology, having Mars in our chart means there is an abundance of energy and action. It helps us to cope with and express our anger and personal power. Aries is with the planet of Mars.

In ancient mythology, Mars was named after the Roman god of war. Therefore, it is considered the planet of war and aggression. It represents the masculine, male energy. It is the second-smallest planet in the Solar System, larger than only Mercury, but yet it is the mightiest.

Jupiter

In astrology, having Jupiter in our chart means great luck, plentitude, and abundance. It symbolizes expansion, influence and sometimes even wealth. Sagittarius is with the planet of Jupiter.

In ancient mythology, Jupiter was named after a Roman god of light, sky and weather. It is the largest of the planets and fifth in order from the sun. It is the planet of blessings, optimism, success, and generosity. It is believed to hold the energy for pushing beyond limitations.

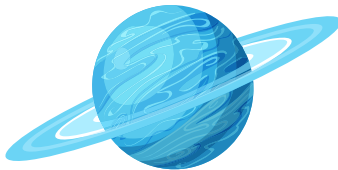

Saturn

In astrology, having Saturn in our chart means maturity, responsibility, discipline, work, and stewardship. It is related to wealth and abundance. Capricorn is with the planet of Saturn.

In ancient mythology, Saturn was named after the god of time, periodic-renewal, and liberation. Its mythological reign was depicted as a Golden Age of abundance and peace. Saturn radiates about twice as much energy into space than it receives from the Sun. It is considered the planet of karma and life lessons.

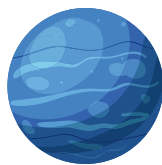

Uranus

In astrology, having Uranus in our chart means extremes, breakthroughs, breakdowns, and limitlessness. It is considered the 'mad scientist' of our solar system. Aquarius is with the planet of Uranus.

In ancient mythology, Uranus was named after the god of the skies, air and wind. It is considered the provocateur, the bringer of the cosmic wake-up call, for both individuals and the collective as a whole. It was the first planet found with the aid of a telescope in 1781.

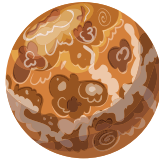

Neptune

In astrology, having Neptune in our chart means ideals, intuition, spirituality, and compassion. It is connected to our psychic talents and hope. Pisces is with the planet of Neptune.

In ancient mythology, Neptune was named after the Roman god of the sea. It brings beauty to a higher, more spiritual level. It holds dreams, the subconscious, illusions, fantasies, and all things magical and enchanting. It is considered the planet of forgiveness and compassion.

Venus

In astrology, having Venus in our chart means values with relationships, finances, and material possessions. It is the celestial body of love and luxury. Taurus is with the planet of Venus.

In ancient mythology, Venus was named after the Roman goddess of love and beauty. She influences all that is pleasurable in life, one's creativity and provides people with divine feminine energy. She imparts knowledge and wisdom on how to love, as well as how to appreciate the material things we possess.

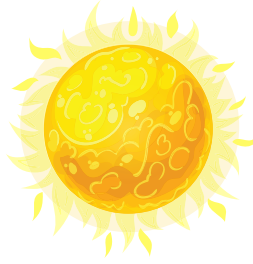

Chiron

In astrology, having Chiron in our chart means core wounds, how we can overcome them, and how to do the necessary work to heal ourselves.

In ancient mythology, Chiron was named after the Greek god Apollo's fostered son Chiron. This planet is known as the wounded healer because of his parents abandoning him. He was considered a healer, philosopher and teacher. Our Chiron sign helps us to access our deepest inner traumas in order to heal them.

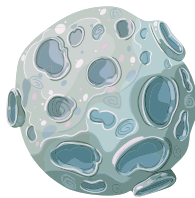

The Sun and the Moon

The sun is known to typify masculine energy, power, positivity and clarity. It illuminates the world around us, helps living creatures navigate the planet, and sustains life itself. The sun is often identified with the Supreme Deity. In ancient Egypt, the sun god, Re was the dominant figure among the high gods.

The sun, in a person represents, confidence and assertiveness. It is an ever-present symbol that humans seem to be attracted to, as it also represents light.

The sun is also believed to empower, enthuse, envelop and embody our movement into a better life. Leo is with the Sun.

The moon is known to typify feminine energy, as it embodies the cycle. The phases of the moon symbolize immortality and eternity, and the enlightenment of the dark side of nature herself.

The moon is considered the almighty healer in the star system. The movement of the oceans, our bodily fluids, and our emotions all have to do with the influence of the moon.

The sacredness of the moon has been connected with the basic rhythms of life and the universe. Moon worship has engendered a rich symbolism and mythology throughout the world.

The moon is also believed to have the power to mask reality, piece illusion and awaken intuition and spark visions. Cancer is with the Moon.

Sea Life and their Meanings

All water creatures have certain wondrous characteristics. These characteristics reflect the opportunities that exist within the sea of our own life. They come to show us how to be more creative in adapting to our life circumstances. Through our experiences with them, we can find healthier ways of being in our own environment. Where birds more represent our spiritual being, water creatures more represent our emotional being.

Trees and Their Meanings

In this technological world, we more often than not, do not pay attention to trees. And yet they are so important to our lives, whether that be in a physical, emotional or spiritual way. Trees are our friends, our neighbors and very often our healers and oracles. We have much to learn from the tree, such as how to grow and stay strong under difficult circumstances, how to help each other, how to branch off, how to root well, and how to protect and persevere. They have been so generous to us. Not only do they have spiritual meanings but they have protected our fundamental needs, such as shelter, paper, fuel and furniture. However, as basic as that may seem, they are sacred and possess great knowledge, having witnessed the rise and fall of many nations and humanity itself.

In truth, human life is but a small fragment of a much larger picture, that patterns itself after the existence and life of the tree. They are our masters, our teachers, our protectors, our nurturers, our sustainers and our life-giving breathalysers. On average, one tree produces nearly 260 pounds of oxygen each year. Let us give gratitude, respect and honor to their magnificent contribution to this planet and those who dwell upon it. To know more, there are many books and in-depth information concerning the meaning and life of trees. This was a simple way to bring awareness of these beautiful and amazing nature-beings.
